DEMOCRATIC TICKET

FOR U. S. SENATOR—FULL TERM,
J. C. W. BECKHAM.

FOR U. S. SENATOR—SHORT TERM
JOHNSON N. CAMDEN.

FOR CONGRESS,
HARVEY HELM.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are authorized to announce HUGH H. COLVER a candidate for State Auditor, subject to action of the Democratic Primary, August, 1915.

The August primary election is over. Some of us are disappointed in the result; some of us got just what we wanted.

J. C. W. Beckham for U. S. Senator for the long term and Johnson N. Camden for U. S. Senator, short term, are the men whom the Democrats of Kentucky are asked to support. Harvey Helm is the man for the Democrats of the Eighth district to stand by. They are good men, each and every one. Madison county must do her part in the district and in the State. She always has done it. It is needless to say that the Climax will do its part in supporting the nominees. This issue of the Climax rounds out its fortieth year. Next week's paper will be the beginning of its forty-first year. For forty years the Climax has "followed the flag," fought for democratic principles and supported without wavering democratic nominees. Oftentimes the nominees have not been of our choice. Sometimes it has been a severe strain upon our party loyalty to support them, but we have never yet swerved to the right nor to the left.

We have no fear as to the old Democrats of the county, district or State, those who have fought the battles for democracy for years. It is to the young democracy to which we especially appeal, to that class of young Democrats who haven't yet learned that it is principle that we are fighting for, not this man or that man; not my choice or your choice, but principle, a fundamental truth. We have been much gratified with the tone of the State press since the primary, the forget-the-past-and-get-together spirit from all sections of the State. The defeated candidates, Gov. McCreary and Congressman Stanley, have both come promptly to the front and offered their support and their aid in every way. Those of us who personally know these men know of what stuff they are made, and know they will make good their word.

Let there be a united democracy, with "malice toward none and with charity for all."

reports that the Germans have captured Warsaw, the capital of Russian Poland, and that the Poles have received the German invaders with great acclaim. St. Petersburg, however, reports that no fighting of any importance has taken place and that the Germans still are at the border, where they have been for some days. Two Montenegrin armies, one under command of King Nicholas and the other commanded by the crown prince, are marching to aid the Serbians against the Austrians. Two Japanese squadrons have left their base under sealed orders, and it is presumed they are on their way to Tsing Tau, the German fortified base in the province of Kiaochow, China.

Honor For Richmond Man.

The following is from the Nicholas County Advocate: "We find in the Drygoodsman a trade paper published in St. Louis, that an idea of Mr. R. C. Oldham, of the firm of C. K. & R. C. Oldham, was thought to be of sufficient merit to be adopted by the Conference and same was adopted and recommended for use in the entire retail shoe trade of this country. This idea, which was adopted by the Conference Committee of the Shoe Retailers and Manufacturers, had to deal with the matter of goods returned for adjustment. Says the Drygoodsman: 'We are glad to know that an idea developed in our territory should be accepted by the National Conference as worthy of adoption by the entire trade.'"

Richmond claims the honor. Mr. Oldham is a Richmond product, we simply having loaned him for a while to our neighbor, Carlisle. He is the wellknown son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Oldham and received his training in the mercantile line under that merchant prince, Mr. W. D. Oldham. No honor can come to him of which the Climax will not be proud.

Body Removed.

Mr. Chas. H. Pigg, of Richmond, and Mrs. Mattie Pigg Wilkerson, of Lexington, were here Tuesday and had the remains of their mother, Mrs. Cynthia A. Pigg, disinterred and removed to the Richmond Cemetery, there to rest beside her husband, the late M. H. Pigg. Mrs. Pigg was the daughter of Jos. Wilson, pioneer hotel keeper, who died of cholera during an epidemic of that plague in 1849. Mrs. Pigg died of tuberculosis in 1867 and was buried in the old Irvine Cemetery.

Besides the two children named, another son, Dr. W. B. Pigg, and a brother, Joseph Wilson, who lives in Missouri, also survive. The Pigg and Wilson families were among the most prominent in the county.—Estill Tribune.

Conflicting Reports.

bridge over the river which was rebuilt by the Germans for their advance was speedily destroyed by Belgian shells and two German regiments were mowed down by quick-firers.

London, Aug. 10.—The French and Belgian armies have laid siege to Liege, which was occupied by the Germans. The French succeeded in reaching Liege and, working behind the Germans, cut off the retreat of the invaders.

London, Aug. 10.—The Germans have made a peaceful occupation of Liege, but the forts around the city still are holding out. The German attack on the forts has been suspended. Threats have been made to the city by the German commander that they will mount cannon on the old citadel overlooking the city and bombard the civilian inhabitants if there is any revolt against their occupation of the city. German soldiers tell the citizens of Liege that they have been without food for forty-eight hours at a stretch, a day and a night of which were occupied in almost constant fighting, showing that the German commissary has been badly handled. It is reported that a large French army and the 22,000 British troops which landed in Belgium Saturday have joined the Belgians, but it is uncertain whether they will prepare to resist the Germans at Namur, where the fortifications are much stronger than those at Liege.

The French Invade Alsace.

The French army which is invading Alsace, after capturing Altkirch and Muehlhausen, have advanced to Colmar, twenty-two miles beyond Muehlhausen and forty miles from Strasbourg, the present objective point of the invaders. Reports of the fighting at Altkirch indicate that the French routed the Germans there after a succession of bayonet charges, and the Germans fled in disorder to Neu Breitsach. The Belgian war office hears that the Germans lost 30,000 men and the French 15,000 in the fighting. These figures are believed to be exaggerated. Muehlhausen was occupied without serious resistance, the Germans having abandoned the earthworks in front of the town. The Alsations of Muehlhausen welcomed the French widely, as deliverers. Clashes are reported between French and German cavalry in the Belgian province of Luxembourg.

Military Movements Guarded.

The British admiralty announces an engagement in which a flotilla of German submarines attacked a British cruiser squadron, presumably in the North sea. None of the British ships was injured, the admiralty reports. One of the German submarines was sunk. British military movements are carefully guarded, but Paris hears that the transportation of British troops to the relief of Belgium continues.

German operations against Liege apparently have been suspended for the moment while a great German army is being concentrated in lower Alsace to repel the French invasion. An Austrian army of 40,000 troops is reported to be nearing the French border just above Basle, Switzerland, to co-operate with the Germans against France, although Austria and France are not yet at war. An Austrian fleet is gathering in the Adriatic.
